English Camps 2010 For German Teens

What is English Camp?

Every summer the southern edge of Germany's "Black Forest" gets invaded by about two hundred German teenagers. The teens are coming to ten day long English camps held near the normally sleepy town of Kandern.

In a globalizing world the English language and North American culture can be excellent tools for evangelism. Some campers come because they want to learn better English. Other campers come because they want to experience Christian fellowship.

By joining our English Camp program as a staff member you can show the love of Jesus Christ to German teenagers in a real and practical way. By helping campers learn conversational English you get a unique chance to build into their lives. Through things as small as making conversation you are teaching them the conversational English they desire. And through sharing your walk with Jesus you are investing in eternity.
